The FCC nor the National Association of Broadcasters should dictate what happens on paid satellite radio networks. The same is true for premium television networks such as HBO and Cinemax. To me, this is yet another way the government wants to control the freedom of information and expression. It is my hope the the FCC will reject the petition of the National Association of Broadcasters. No one wants to limit freedom of speech because it is not constitutional. To accept the petition of the National Association of Broadcasters is an acceptance of legal culpability which cannot and will not be tolerated.
